STICKS, STONES & BROKEN BONES

Door hardware for Izé (www.ize.info)

A collection of products cast from found objects, Sticks & Stones & Broken Bones becomes a kind of cabinet of curiosities in itself. In an attempt to bring some of the tactile textures of the natural world to the usually geometric realm of hardware, Faye Toogood has created a range of visually arresting products covering all hardware applications form door and cabinet handles to coat hooks.

The products have been cast from objects in Toogood's personal collection — stones and rocks collected around England, and old bones found on the banks of the Thames. The idea is that they can be mixed and matched, each imparting to the architecture a sense of the foraged and the found.
